

CRAN
BROOK

those were the days, my friends

we thought they'd never end.

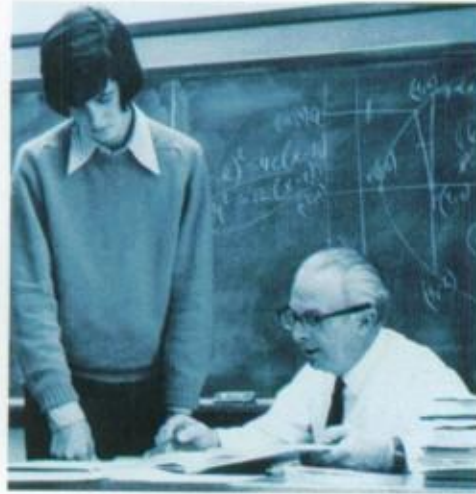

bloomfield hills, michigan.

volume XLIII 1973.

Cranbrook is many stories, stories of classes attended, classes skipped, papers, exams, teachers, hassle stories of dorm life, valley life, no life. Of jocks and flakes, girls and friends. Of failures, of successes.

a year has passed at Cranbrook....

The Brook tries to recall some of the things about that year.

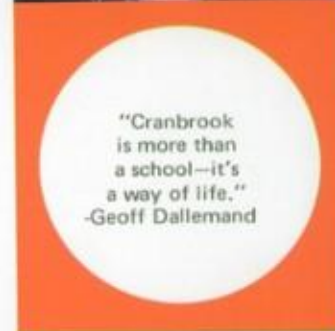

Ideally,
it would say all things to all of us at Cranbrook.

Realistically,
it can only be a partial picture.

"It's got everything I need —
girls and sports."

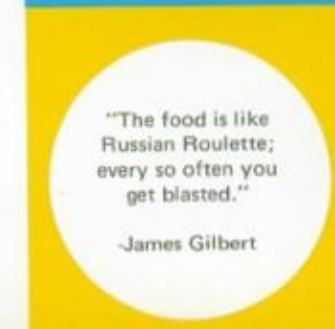

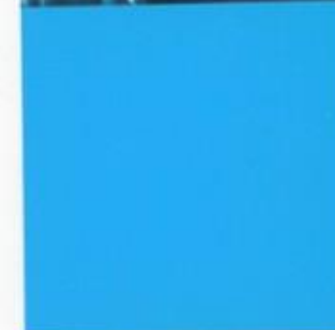

-Jim Johnson

"Cranbrook
is more than a school—it's a way of life."
-Geoff Dallemand

"For those with their feet on the ground, there is no limit to how far they will go. For those without, there is no limit to how far they won't go."
-Phil Brown

"The food is like
Russian Roulette;
every so often you get blasted."

-James Gilbert

"Cranbrook? It's an experience . . .!!"

-Lee Jackson

"A place where adults and students can grow up if they want to."

-Ed Dougherty

and so

the reader is called upon to add

his own thoughts

"Cranbrook is a place where you can do anything you want, and it seems that's what everybody does—anything."

-George Booth

"Social life
and disciplinary actions are Elizabethan."

-Charlie Ryburn

"It's a good place to get a good education
AND
have a good time."

-Pete Putnam

"Though at times
it may seem a bit trying, I like this place. I really do."

- Clark Shuler

Those were the days, my friend,
We thought they'd never end.
We'd sing and dance forever and a day . . .

"Cranbrook is a conflict between a student's search for education and his search for himself."
- Norm Fill

"This place is something else!"
- Clint Moore

We'd live the life we choose,
We'd fight and never lose,
For we were young and sure to have our way.

"Cranbrook as an entity doesn't exist because it is thought of as a school rather than a place to learn."
- Keith Schlesinger

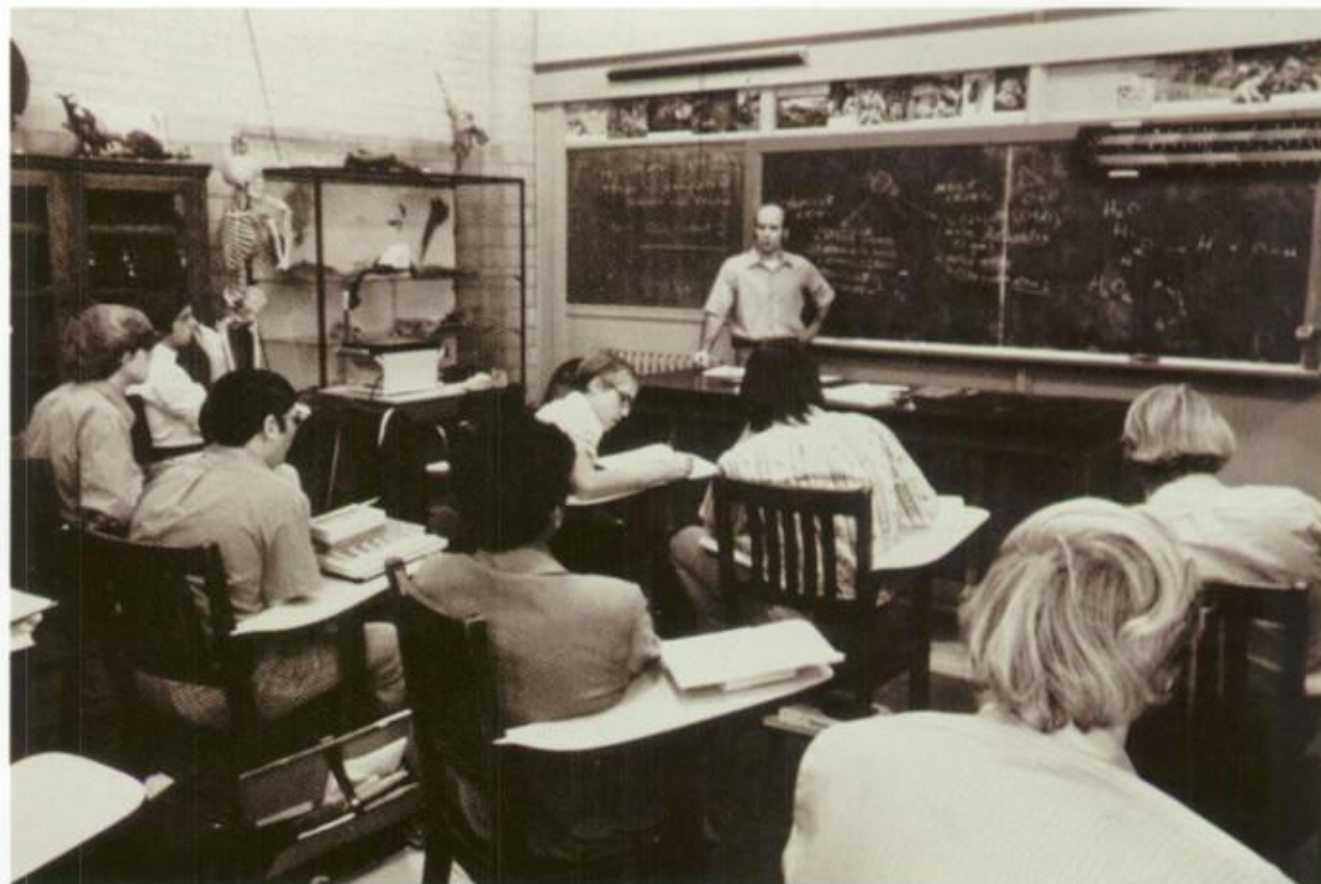

"Huzzah!!!"
- Bob Gamburd

Not so long ago
There was a school
Where we used to share
A class or two.

Remember how we laughed
Away the hours
And dreamed of all
The great things
We would do

"The one problem with Cranbrook is the students' attitudes."
- Forest Tull

"So who's going to sports today?"
- Gerry Mack

Then the busy years went rushing by us;
 We lost our starry notions on the way.
 If by chance I'd see you in the hall We'd smile at one another and we'd say

Those were the days, my friend,
 We thought they'd never end.

"The outlook students have toward Black people is very naive and distorted.
 How can I survive, living under such conditions?"
 -David Keith
 McMurray

"It's the only place in the world where you can be swamped and not care."

- Bill Colosimo

Just tonight I stood before the schoolhouse, Nothing seemed the way it used to be.
 In the window I saw a strange reflection
 Was that lonely fellow really me?

"Cranbrook has all the possibilities to become a great school, but they're in the course of regaining their stature."
 - Rick String

"It's what you make of it that's important. Beyond that, nothing
 matters."

- John Hudson

Through the door there came familiar laughter
 I saw your face and heard you call my name.
 All my friends were older but no wiser
 For in our hearts the dreams are still the same.

"Hockey
 is
 THE greatest!!

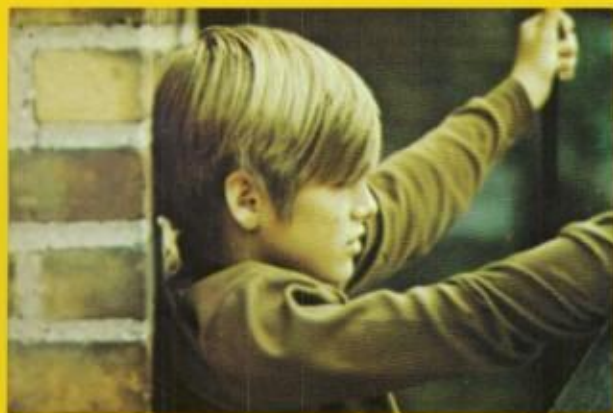

- Dave Seibert

"The best thing about Cranbrook is Kingswood."

-Anders Berggren

those were the days....

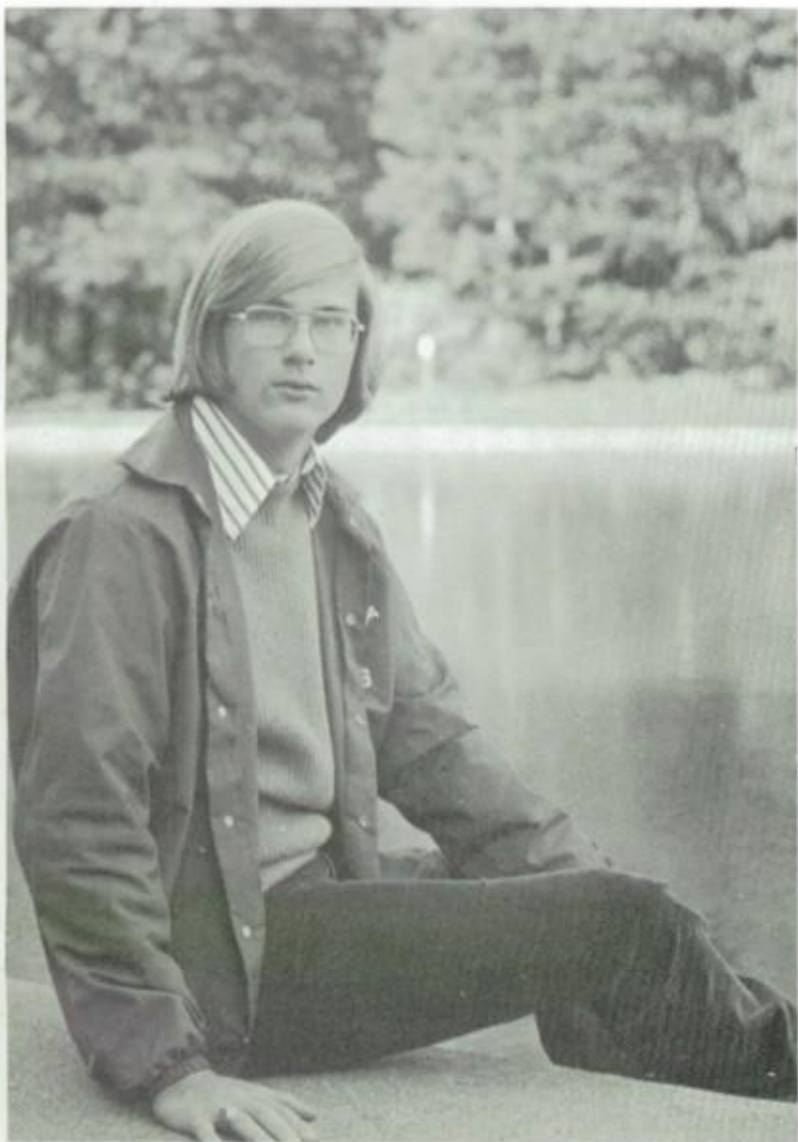

oh yes,
those were the days.

is Cranbrook real?
—or is it just an imaginary world?

are these physical surroundings and the wealth at Cranbrook what the real world is like . . .?

Look
 at us
 Let's see
 Here
 we are Look hard
 Speak Soft
 I
 see
 You
 see
 We all see
 Stop
 Look
 Listen
 Beholder's Eye . .

Don't look now, but isn't that you?
 . . . us?

to know what is impenetrable to us
 really exists manifesting itself as the highest wisdom
 the most radiant beauty

to understand that we do not know
 and can not understand all
 the beginning of wisdom

the eyes of young men are curious and penetrating, their imaginations are of a roving nature, and their passion under no discipline or restraint

. . .their minds are restless, turbulent, strong, and unyielding, as difficult to subdue as the wind.

here we go now, learning something new, something more, moving a little farther along the road that has no end — stuff and ways,
conditions and meanings,
problems and solutions,
facts and fantasies,
truth and untruth

we hear, we touch
we talk too much of things we have no knowledge of.
we see, we feel yet can't conceal
how small we are
how little we know.

see how the time moves swiftly by we don't know how we don't know why.
we reach so high and fall so low
the more we learn the less we know.

too soon the time
to go will come,
too late the will to carry on and so we leave
too much undone.
how small we are
how little we know.

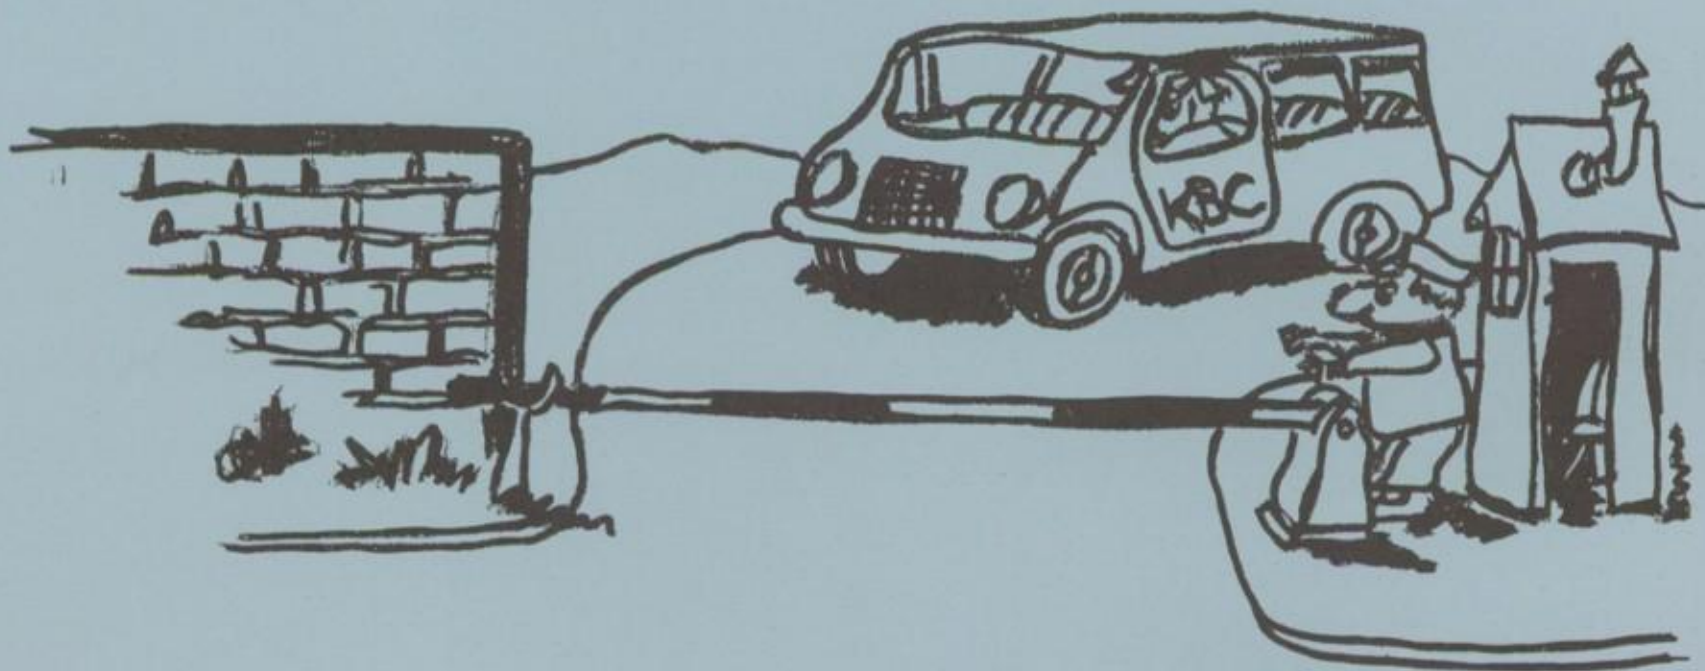

at Cranbrook
the knowledge and opportunity
are here.
you just have to strive to grasp it.

A Year at Cranbrook —

....a personalized history....

It seems like so long ago that I first came away to Cranbrook.... but then it seemed like such a long time until graduation, which is tomorrow!
Anyway, those years were pretty good,
I guess...at least that's what I seem to remember....

.... just getting settled was a hassle.... all those books!.... and that was just for the FIRST semester.

.... some of the kids standing in line seemed to know each other, but it was kinda hard to tell if they were glad to be at Cranbrook or resigned to it like fate....

....they gave me a pretty nice room in the dormitories — a Detroit Lion had slept there, Wow!! they gave me a good guy for a roommate, too, although he seemed to sleep almost as much as that foot ball player....

....living at school wasn't so bad after you got used to the food — and the rules — and on the weekend I could stay up all night....

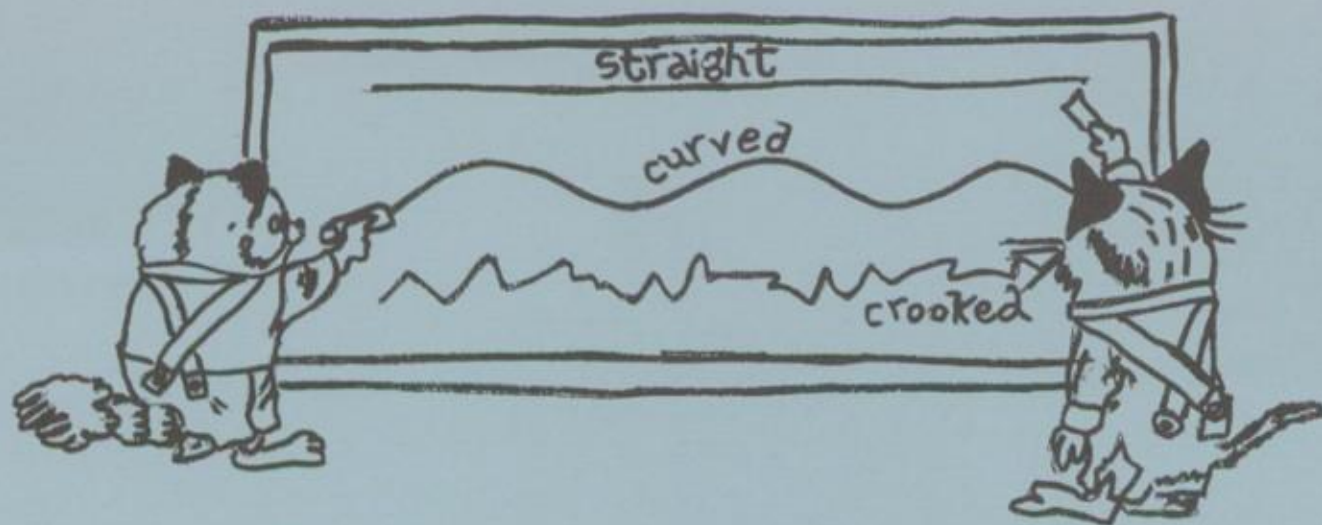

.... going to classes was what Cranbrook is all about — although sometimes I didn't go, which usually upset the teachers.... most of the times I did go, I didn't have my books, though, 'cause they were always getting lost or ripped off from the South Lobby.... the new lockers were a pain to use — too far away — and besides, it was a good excuse not to do your homework....

.... the guys in my classes were all real smart.... even the girls.... I knew most of the answers, too, except on tests.... I never was any good taking exams, really?

....there were lots of new courses being introduced to Cranbrook.... in the math department it was some sort of experimental geometry.... my roommate never seemed to have homework in it, but he got a good grade.... hrum-m.... I never could do new math!

....studying was a drag, but if you were in the dorms, it wasn't so bad, 'cause most of us did other things instead....anyhow, I had this social science course and all you did was sit around and use big words....

....those who wanted to could do lots of other things besides study.... some of the guys got together and started a band.... real good music, they even played at assembly.... the middle schoolers played music, too, but that was recorders or something—we could hear them during 5th period class.... you could be "creative" in other ways, too, like making a movie for film class.... mine never seemed to come out too good, though, but maybe that was because I never started them until the week before—or maybe it was the actors?

watching movies for your homework was lots of fun, anyhow.... heavy....!??

....then there was the chess club.... it was the only real club in the school, and they played EVERY day and EVERY place—even at lunch—I tried to learn but kept getting "mated", whatever that is... check, check, check.... sounded like my teacher!

.... the sad part about music at Cranbrook was that most of the time the guys played only for themselves.... hidden away in that old building, they didn't get the recognition they deserved....

.... you didn't have to join anything, tho, to have some pretty interesting "experiences".... just enjoy the Estate....

.... then there was debate.... they didn't get much recognition, either, but then, who watches a bunch of guys arguing about federal aid to education? they won lots of neat trophies, tho....

.... nature-watching at Jonah was fun, too... YIPPIE!

....after classes were over, we had to do "work duty".... everybody had to do something, except if you were supervisor, or skipped out.... then you got "hours", which really wasn't an hour, so it wasn't too bad....

....after school the faculty often had meetings.... I went once, and they weren't very interesting - the meeting I mean.... and smoky, eech....!

Once there was a special meeting about me.... and I got to do some special work for "the community".... later, lots of us did.... never liked Saturday, anyhow...

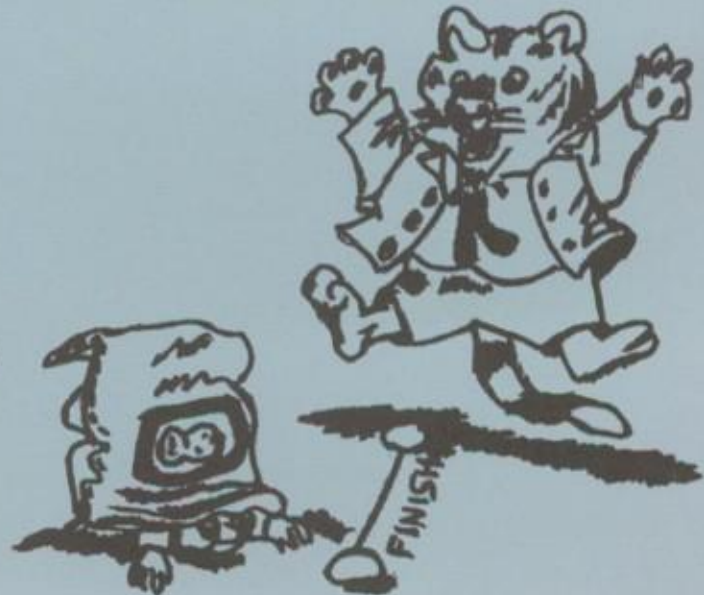

.... of course there was SPORTS !!
I didn't like foot ball - too tough - and I couldn't run very fast, so I played soccer.... which was kinda fun, except sometimess the coach, he called us "babies", which is pretty strange if you're almost seventeen and can drive.... G.S. was fun, too, especially in the spring when we played softball and flew Kites in the Valley....really high!

....one day they let us out of school and had something called
"community life day".... we played games and helped each other and got to know each other better....even the faculty participated - most of them anyway....wow!
it was a great experience.

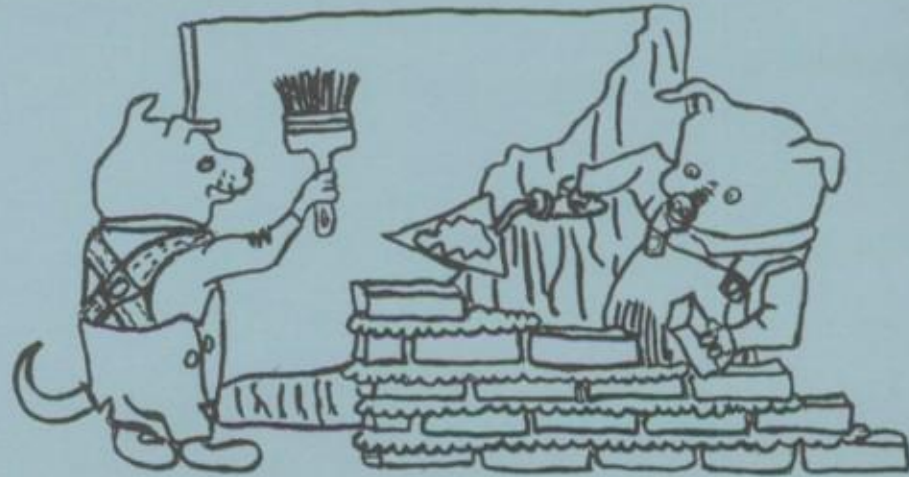

....during the winter, they began to fix up the school.... painted the classrooms and halls and everything - in COLORS yet! they also re-built a little wall back of the dorm.... started in December and finished just before spring vacation! they also took the shrubs out of the Quad by Hoovey Hall, but not everyone liked that....

....there were lots of interesting people at Cranbrook.... like the maintenance men.... whenever you needed something fixed, like a broken window or thermostat they'd come and fix it.... sooner or later.... they were real great to talk to, though, always willing to stop working and listen; maybe they helped more that way....

....another interesting person was the school nurse.... she was really helpful, especially sometimes when I didn't want to go to sports or had a test or something.... we got along fine, except when I didn't turn in my medical form until January (it was due in September or sometime)....

.... sometimes I went over to Kingwood.... on nice days I walked, but usually I took the bus 'cause the trip was half the fun.... if you were a day student, you could take a bus to school in the morning, too, but then you couldn't go cruisin' during free periods....

.... the real reason for taking the bus to Kingwood was to get to the girls, although supposedly you had a class or something... isn't coordinate education great? except they get better grades!

....another reason for going to Kingwood was to eat.... have you ever eaten 6th period lunch at Cranbrook?

.... I mean, like when you walk into the dining hall and see the whole menu spread out before you.... on the tables, on the floor, on the chairs. and you haven't even gotten past the "faculty brats" yet.... oh well, at least you know what you could have had earlier.

....no matter what else happened during a given day, somebody just had to give an assignment.... and I wanted to watch TV....

....one neat place to go is the library, unless you really want to get some work done.... they moved the library so now there are two, one to read in, one to talk in.... and the lady librarians have a cookie jar....

.... sometimes after class we'd have assembly.... they were mandatory, which meant you couldn't leave early after you'd come.... some were entertaining, some weren't, but which depended on your point of view....

.... I tried to get TV-watching approved as my after-school project.... as a "spectator-sport".... but couldn't get a faculty sponsor.

.... afterwards we'd assemble at Jonah.... not everyone came to that either, which was a good thing....

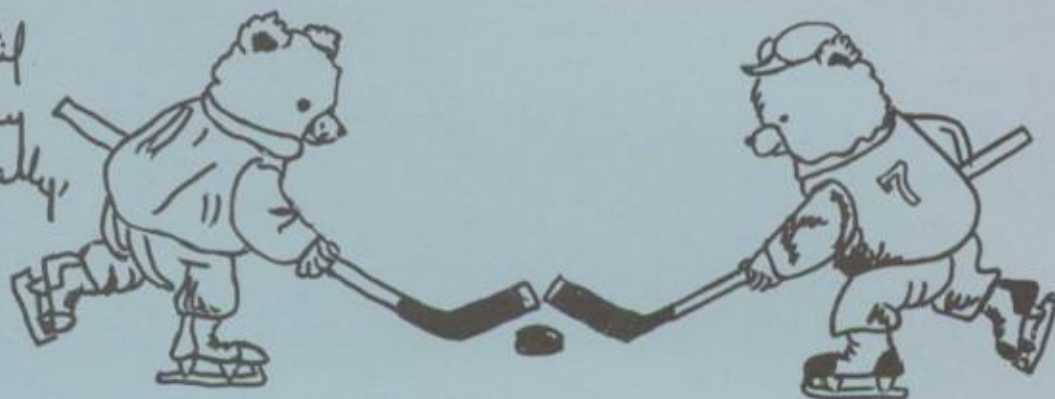

.... whenever I got sorta depressed, I went to bed.... that usually happened (a) before a test, (b) right after a test, or (c) when the test grade came out.... I sleep a lot, especially in the mornings, 1st period....

.... doing that depressed my teacher — also my grades....

....sledding
in the Valley is fun even if there isn't any snow.... actually,
it's MORE fun
that way....
Yippie!

....they put on dramatic musicals at Cranbrook, complete with singing,
dancing, and some acting.
....sometimes the actors get so enthused they break things, but how do you break your toe doing the Highland Fling?
....and after the play, there are cast parties - oh, wow!

....hockey is just about the most popular winter sport there is, even for spectators.
....we used to go to the games and throw stuff on the ice, but now all they let us do is throw insults.*too bad!

....I've never figured out all those nicknames, but maybe it's because so many players have the same last name.... except why do they call their coach a turtle?can't he skate?

* occasionally fists, too, but that's for the players.

.... those were the days,
my friends.... we thought they'd never end.... but they did!....

.... the months and years were over—so were classes, exams, even friendships.

.... all that remained was summer, and then... ???

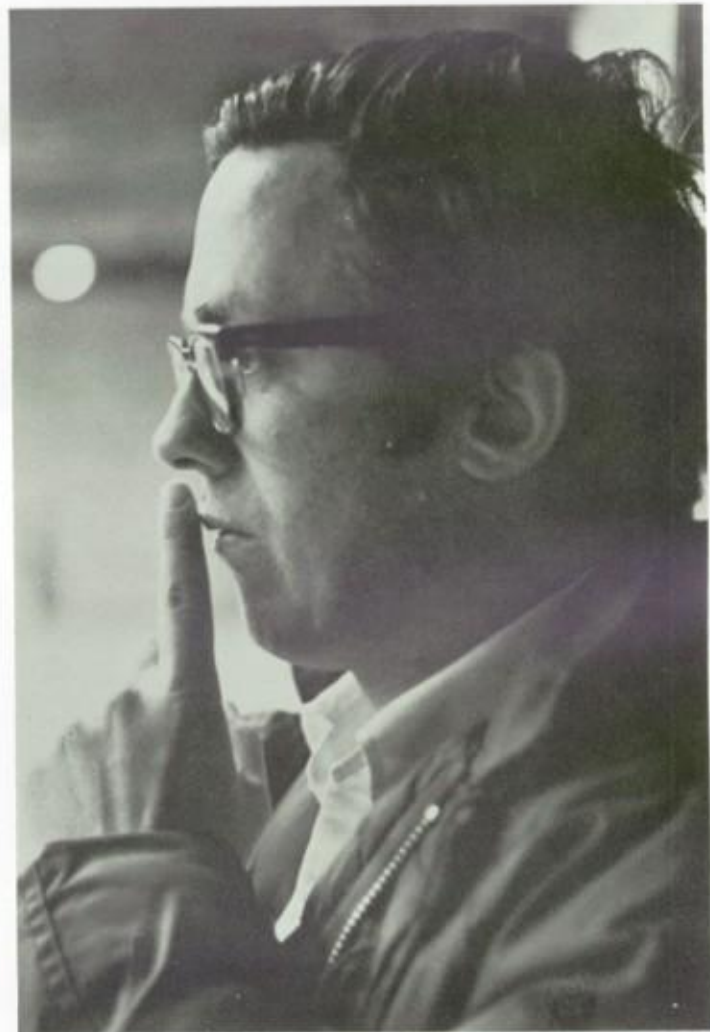

faculty....

Indeed,
as Cranbrook's admissions department will tell you, Cranbrook's faculty IS unique, but uniqueness here lies not so much in this faculty's quality, which is admittedly superb, as in the fact that we, the students, have been subjected to the brilliance and eccentricities, to the very personalities of this group of men and women.

For the coach the challenge of sports is every bit as critical as for the athlete.

I felt unusually happy.

For some, athletics was jock-ness and letters,
For others, athletics was G.S. and the valley,
But there was something for everyone in Cranbrook athletics,
If only to watch and cheer.

John D. Austin

I will always remember John for the tremendous contribution he has made to Cranbrook. Not only to the school, but to the lives of all those who were connected with it and those who knew him personally. He was always ready to take on more than his share of the burden to insure that the school would function as a unit. John put his entire self into this school and my only hope is that he benefitted as much out of his stay at Cranbrook as the school has benefitted by having John as a student.

Matthew E. Bagamery

Matt was one of the most versatile people in the school. Who else could survive six years of mimicking the faculty. "Awright, what the heck is this?", pink glasses, confrontations with Altie, a bad muffler, Bodball (No. 1 for seven straight weeks in the A.P.), sleeping, and still graduate with honors? He will go down in Cranbrook history as the "World's fastest human (all-fours division)". Matt was also the only day-boy who had a non-resident membership in Marquis Hall. As a graduate student of the Bob Jones School of Culture, he will probably wind up as a physician, while moonlighting as a nightclub comedian until, that is, he wins the Nobel Prize.

A man options one of three roads;
One straight;
One curved and crooked to his own self;
And one which hits all the cross-roads, Meandering in, out, and among both.
A man options how he travels these roads;
By night, nocturnally, or by day, diurnally;
By man, or instincts,
Or by both using all the options to their fullest.
Many Men, indecisive, and non-observant,
Travel these roads,
Blindly, and fail to learn.

Sure as hell hope I don't make the same mistake.

In '67, Geoff dove deep into Cranbrook, and surfaced in his senior year. He tried to know everyone, and everything about the school. He was a determined runner, and drew satisfaction from every mile. Music was a basic part of his character. He was neither a jock, freak, intellectual, good guy or bad guy; but a touch of each. He was the sole survivor of the '72 Moscow pox plague. Gary spent most of his time on the soccer field perfecting his already-booming kick. His professed aim is to "kick a ball into the lights" at one of the night games; with size fourteen feet, there's not much doubt he'll do it. Whatever he did, Gary (affectionately, or should I say reverently, called "Sledge" by his teammates) performed with expertise ... whether it was booting a free kick above and beyond the goal (Mr. Penalty Kick) or crunching someone into the boards in hockey. Six years is a long time to be known as one of Eddie's babies, and eighteen years is a long time to know Cranbrook ...

Life is change, how it differs from the rocks, I've seen their ways too often for my liking, new worlds to gain, my life is to survive, and be alive, for you. Open your eyes, use your head, realize that you're not dead, take a look, at an open book, let it cook, that's what I said, do what you like, I dig love. Mount the Earth and learn to ride her. But I can't find my way home. Don't you know we're riding on the Marrakesh Express. It's my life and I do what I want. It's my mind and I think what I want, And the time will come when you see we're all one, and life flows on within you and without you. I admit it's getting better, a little better all the time.

Benny Goodman: what can one say about a person who has taken so much abuse but has always come back for more?

Andy's achievement in athletics was equal to his success in picking his sports heroes. Yet he was always quick to defend, Norm Cash, or Nick Eddy, depending on which one was getting cut down at the moment. It has to be said that Andy was one of the most faithful Tiger, Lion, Piston fans that Cranbrook has seen. Andy was not the type to give up. The largest prehistoric bird was the elephant bird (Aepyornis maximus), also known as the roc bird, which lived in Southern Madagascar. It was a flightless bird standing 9 to 10 feet in height and weighing up to 965 lbs. It also had the largest eggs of any living creature. One example measures 12 5/8 inches in length with a diameter of 9 3/8 inches, giving a capacity of 2.35 gallons—six times that of an ostrich egg.

There wasn't a person at Cranbrook, who, upon knowing Bill, didn't like him. Bill's quick wit, perpetual smile, and great sense of humor were high spots in Marquis Hall. Whether he was defending Grand Haven (home of the World's Largest Musical Fountain, of course) or the Beach Boys, Harbs never lost an argument; in fact it gained him great popularity. He was always ready for a little fun at night, whether it was a raid on Kingswood or the Kitchen. Besides making friends and having fun, Harbs also excelled in his school work and in sports. Putting this together is hard to do, but he did it quite successfully. Through all his successes at Cranbrook, Bill has maintained certain virtues that truly make him unique. He'll be missed but it is sure that he will succeed in whatever venture he chooses.

Bill came to Cranbrook in the fall of '71 talking Jockness. He soon proved everyone wrong. He established a record. Not in sports, not being on honors; which he was; but he could get busted more times for the most trivial deeds. Always getting screwed up for covering for his friends; "I know who did it, Mr. Low, but I'm not going to tell."

When he wasn't canoeing, climbing the water tower (ERIC! HELP ME!), or cruising with Mera (Thanks Rod!), he was keeping up with his schoolwork.

Although being a day-boy, Bruce was very much into dorm life. He was friendly with everyone, and he would always be on hand to give an isolated boarder a badly-needed lift somewhere. Always on the look-out for "a little contact", the night life was the good life. Upon numerous occasions, he experienced strange, strong desires to sign-in with the rest of the boarders on weekends. To this day, most of us wonder if he did the same thing in England.

So you want a quote with meaning? Why not go and find one? Better yet, why not quote yourself? You've got a brain, why not formulate some profundity? I live the way I feel most comfortable, and sometimes I do my own thinking. But you want something, some fragmentary phrase to help you grasp my character, some far-fetched and long-lasting truth. Isn't that so? The truth about anyone and anything is not in these dusty, ever-withering pages. They have no meaning except for us, we who wither long before these pages will. And perhaps a smidgen of meaning for you biographers and historians of the future. Go! Turn this page! Turn all the pages! Close the book. The truth is in living. —C.C.L.

Four years see a lot of changes in a person, but no more than at Cranbrook. It's been great: four years of saying, "This is a drag", three years of getting messed up on Faculty Way or at Kingswood, two years of finding and retaining reality, and endless years of Rod, Pip, Crudeness, Deubs, Clare, and all the others who were close to me at one time or another. But... I've got to move on, or die with the memories of my adolescence.

I am very pleased with the education I have gotten at Cranbrook, and that is the primary reason why I came here. My real interests, however, lie outside the school. I'm the bridge between magic spirits, where the angels sleep. The bridge between night and day where the devil's cry pierces of silence. The bridge where the spirits meet to dance the dances of David, master of time. I'm the bridge between here and there/between now and who knows where. If you look on the ground, and I'm not there, and you see a black in the skies, it's only me running the freedom race, trying to cross my bridge. If you look up into the sky, and you see complete blackness, it's me, making the vital transformation into the spaces of black totalness . . . and life.

If, while walking by the Cranbrook parking lot, you happen to see some kid drive by in a fast sports car, don't worry, you know it isn't Bernie. Bernie is the one with his head under someone's hood and his hands are all greasy, slimey black. Dear Andy:
Here I am at Cranbrook, and I think that I'm very glad to be here. After spending the great majority of two years wasting my time, maybe now I'll do some learning, if it's not too late. The classes I'm taking are all good, and the campus is beautiful. Even the food passes here (right through you!) and the rules aren't too bad. The social climate here is very tight, and the females are bizarre creatures, but I guess I expected as much. All in all, it'll be a pretty good year.

Pete never won any Mr. America contests, but then he never needed them. You see, Pete was always happy. Whether he was studying, eating french fries with lots of ketchup, fooling around, eating hamburgers with lots of ketchup, attempting to play hockey, eating anything with lots of ketchup or just plain drinking ketchup, he was always happy. He always played down his near-flowless French and kept on working on his studies. Cranbrook has made him happy.

One more time to live and I have made it mine Leave the wise to write for they write wordly rhymes
And he who wants to fight begins the end of time . . .
For I have riches more than these
For I have riches more than these.

—The Moody Blues

Entered form II.

Roger B. Smith

Let's go on with the game the queen said . . . He might bite lice cautiously replied . . . Of course it is said the duchess turn a somersault in the sea cried the mock turtle . . . It's good to be back said Lance.

David A. Strickland

A little wit had pleased me more by half;
I didn't come to learn, I came to laugh.

—Saxe

Richard F. String

I remember all those thousands of hours
That I spent in grade school watching the clock waiting for recess or lunch or to go home Waiting: for anything but school, My teachers could have easily ridden with Jesse James for all the time they stole from me.
—Richard Brautigan

Entered form IV; C-Club 4, 5, 6; Student Government 5; Brook Photographer 4; Dean's Committee 5; Lodestar 5, 6; Page Hall Prefect 6; Varsity Letters: Football 4, 5; Track 4.

Never have I been taught so much, both academically and otherwise, as in Cranbrook, the "Education" I received at Kingswood will undoubtedly be unsurpassed for many years to come.

As for Cranbrook, it, too, will remain with me always, as a help and a hindrance, the good with the bad, outward-bound versus work-duty.

"You are the bows from which your children as living arrows are sent forth. The Archer sees the mark upon the path of the infinite, and He bends you with His might that His arrows may go swift and far. Let your bending in the archer's hand be for gladness. For even as He loves the arrow that flies, so He loves also the bow that is stable."

—The Prophet, Kahlil Gibran

Entered form III; Soccer 3, 4; Track 3, 4, 5, 6; Tennis 5;

Ayanend Tagore

In his six years at Cranbrook, Gullu - Ayanendranath for short - dove into everything from Astronomy to Science Fiction. Ever ready to explore new fields, the school's diverse curriculum gave him great satisfaction. In the classroom his combination of quick insight, (not too) often sick jokes and unprecedented philosophical outbursts (like: "What am I doing?" or "... Huh...??") always stimulated his fellow students.

But a puzzle about Gullu still remains. How he could spend all day in the computer center and still manage to get A's and B's is one of the great mysteries of our time.

Entered form I; Band 1, 2, 3; World Affairs Seminar 4, 5, 6; Junior Tutor; Computer Center Supervisor 4, 5, 6; Obscurity Club 3, 4, 5, 6; Procrastinator Club (President) 4, 5, 6; Chess Club 5, 6.

Shin Taguchi

Watch me jump up in the air my hands on fire but I don't care kiss me right between the eyes and eat a jar of dragon flies thank you Lois, thank you Briggs for the way you dance on bible twigs.

One sweet dream—
pick up the bags and get in the limousine.
Soon we'll be away from here, step on the gas and wipe that tear away.
One sweet dream came true today,

—Beatles

Though I have much to write you, I do not wish to do so with paper and ink, for I hope to be with you and to speak face to face.

Mark R. Tokarski

Four years. Sit-down meals, bed checks, coat and tie ...
Apathy at Cranbrook ... Those moments spent with friends ... Those moments spent alone. So many memories ...

Four years. It seemed so long to a scared freshman. It seems so short now ... And now it's time to say goodbye, to look toward "new horizons". But though I leave, part of me stays behind. Goodbye, Cranbrook. It's been nice knowing you ...

Entered form III; Orchestra 3, 4; Band 5, 6; NMSQT Finalist 6; Cum Laude 6; Michigan Math Prize Winner 4, 5; Computer Center 4, 5, 6; Student Commons, Secretary 6;

Gary B. Zimmerman

When I remember this guy, I will recall not one Henry Whiting, but two. One is the sport enthusiast—the guy with a golf club in hand, a hockey stick in the other, and a layout in his head for a golf course that wouldn't let Nicklaus break 80. Henry, the sports fan, should not, however, obscure the other Henry—The fellow who has been a real friend for three years. Good luck, Henry. Maybe we can knock that infernal golf course of yours, but we sure can't knock your friendship.

Entered form IV; Hockey 4, 5, 6; Golf 5, 6; Varsity Letters: Golf 6.

Henry Whiting

I'll get stoned but I can't crawl home Well I'm calling long distance on a public saxophone Midnight lighting striking right now

—J. Hendrix

I'm not sad to be leaving, I only wish I'd better spent my time here.

On a chilly October morning, Cranbrook and Kingswood came together for a happening called Community Life Day. The object — to meet other people — how it was accomplished — different, to say the least.

But, after a day of five-legged races, canoe paddling, jumping, and climbing, the reaction of the participants was one of success.

middle school

Although the Middle Schoolers seem to do nothing but run and scream, they do find time to go to class

If children grew up according to early indications, we should have nothing but geniuses . . .

And still they gaz'd, and still the wonder grew—
That one small head could carry all he knew you shall above all things be glad and young for if you are young, whatever life you wear

it will become you, and if you are glad whatever's living will yourself become.

Although the Middle Schoolers don't play with the same finesse as the Varsity,
they play with the same determination

There is a magic in the memory of schoolboy friendships;
it softens the heart,
and even affects the nervous system of those who have no heart the performing arts

instruments like people mingle . . . together creating out of harmony dotted quarters and half notes, valves and reeds.
 at times leading us into our inner souls
 revealing the beauty of sound or plunging us forcefully into a world of pulsating rhythms, a creator of moods,
 a creator of emotions a creator of living sound . . .

smiling, straining, reaching for high notes combine to make sense out of black marks on white sheets, to create beauty out of the plain, to produce harmony out of a din, diaphragmatic beathing, scales,
 warm-ups, humming,
 all for one goal . . .
 a concert to perform,
 a song to sing,
 a melody to make . . .
 the art of communicating through the language of music.

THOSE WERE THE ONLY MY FRIENDS

.... one day in the life of

Let's say, for argument's sake, that Sam Student is a typical, run-of-the-mill type Cranbrook student. (Let's also say, for argument's sake, that there is no such thing as a typical, run-of-the-mill type Cranbrook student.) We'll make Sam a day student in the eleventh grade.

Sam drives to school in his new compact car after a well-balanced breakfast of orange-juice and toast. Sam always drives about three miles over the speed-limit and figures since no cop has caught him yet, it must be O.K. He parks in a space by a light post, thinking that if another car wants to smash him, it will hit the post first, which is kind of a stupid reason because why would anyone want to smash their own car in the process? Anyway, that's how Sam sees the

Remember how we laughed away the hours
And dreamed of all the great things we would do . . .

Those were the days, my friends,
We thought they'd never end situation.

Walking up from the parking lot, he decides he might as well drop off some of his books in his locker. Sam notes the new paint on the walls as he goes down the steps to the day-boy lounge. Cranbrook grey—why couldn't they paint it a decent color, at least?

Some jerk has locked the lounge from the inside, so Sam bangs on the door for a few seconds. One of those nice-guy students opens the door and walks out while Sam mumbles a half-hearted "thanks". By now the floor of the lounge has been skuffed to death, and Sam takes an "oh well, nothing I can do about it" attitude and goes to his locker.

He drops off his books, and "cruises" up to read the kiosk. The halls are one-eighth filled with one-eighth awake students, all kind of sitting there talking, absorbed in a book, or staring straight ahead. Strange. The kiosk is full of junk notices: 'for sale' stuff, 'come here' notices, 'go there' notices—all junk. It's all a week old anyway.

Sam looks at his watch. 8:08. Might as well

We'd live the life we choose,
We'd fight and never lose,
For we were young and sure to have our way.

go to Algebra, he figures. A day without Algebra is like a day without sunshine. Somehow, Sam wished the sun wouldn't shine this morning. Today he learned more about functions. It was odd the way they made $F(x)y$. Towards the end of the period the halls started to erupt in a barrage of noise from the kids who were going to the 'wood' Sam had a class there next period, too—history.

It wasn't that he didn't like the class, on the contrary he was fascinated with history, but the bus rides—oh blah! He would undoubtedly wind up standing, hanging on to the seat hoping he wouldn't fall over or drop his books.

Kingswood's class ratio was fantastic—7 girls to one boy. Now that he thought about it, Cranbrook was the same way with directly opposite proportions. The bell rang after a 45 minute lecture on the amendments and Sam hurried to the Green Lobby to catch the bus. The ride back wasn't so bad—he was able to squeeze into a seat with a kid with the gift of incessant chatter. Sam ignored it.

With no class the next period, Sam went into

Just tonight I stood before the schoolhouse, Nothing seemed the way it used to be the library to read the newspaper, but somebody else already had it, so he read Popular Science instead. He finally got the paper. In sports yesterday, the Pistons lost again, and the comics placed Snoopy on his dog house with Woodstock.

Lunch—11:15. Sam walked across the quad. It was a shame that all those names on the walk were getting chipped away. The line outside the kitchen stretched half-way down the dining hall. Sam wondered what was for lunch. Today it was hamburgers. He would probably have to fight his way through the crowd to get some ketchup and mustard. He wasn't too hungry today so he had only one dessert, a salad and the main course. He sat down with his jock friends who were carrying on an intelligent conversation about hockey. "Is there a game today?" he asked. "Yea, and man are we gonna cream those guys," was the reply.

Sam remembered he had science next period. He took his tray up and went back to his locker, via the kiosk, to pick up the right books. Nothing new, as usual, wait a minute—

All my friends were older but no wiser
For in our hearts the dreams were still the same.

Through the door there came familiar laughter,
I saw your face and heard you call my name

Those were the days, my friend,
We thought they'd never end.

an assembly today. Just what he needed.

Science passed and Spanish came and went.
Tests in both next Friday. Good Grief, Sam thought.

Sam wanted to be sure to go to the hockey game but first came Work Program and the assembly. Sam didn't like Work Program—he had to wash the chalk boards.

Assembly was more interesting. Some more guys got suspended and there was a poll being passed out by some inquisitive sophomores for their Social Science class.

Sam wished he could be on the ice skating and checking the other team into the boards.
Thing was that hockey was a great spectator sport but Sam thought again about if he really wanted to knock himself out each day in practice. After all, volleyball was O.K. with him. Yea, his jock friends were right, they creamed 'em—8 to 1. Sam figured he'd better get home soon; his mom was probably fixing dinner. Sam walked up to his new compact car parked by the post and drove off.

e winter of despair . . .

. . . those were the days, my friends,
oh yes, those WERE the days

Well, the book is almost finished.

We didn't say much about life away from 520 Lone Pine Road.

We weren't too interested in drugs, booze, rules, or big D's.

We liked to concentrate on the sunny hours, of which there were many.

The book told part of a story -- it couldn't tell a whole story.

There were 498 whole stories

Each person saw it differently

It was a love/hate relationship few could avoid.

You came out of it somehow different, somehow changed.

Across the morning sky, all the birds are leaving.
Ah, how can they know it's time for them to go.
Before the winter fire we'll still be dreaming
I do not count the time.
Who knows where the time goes.
Who knows where the time goes.

Sad deserted shore our fickle friends are leaving.
Ah, but then you know it's time for them to go.
But I will still be here, I have no thought of leaving
I do not count the time.
Who knows where the time goes.
Who knows where the time goes.
